Just WHO Do You Think You Are?
Fall Retreat Looks into Self-inquiry

This year’s fall retreat was titled “Know Thyself: The Practice of Inquiry,” and was led by Joel at the usual location, Cloud Mountain Retreat Center. Thirty of us took up the jnana path for this retreat, which took place October 13-22. Under Joel’s guidance we traversed the stages of self-inquiry that jnana seekers might encounter on the quest for Truth/Source/Reality/God. This was, of course, a condensed version of what often takes many years to discover (or not, as in the case of Ramana Maharshi’s 15-minute journey to Gnosis), but it provided an excellent overview of what a jnani might be signing up for in choosing this path.

Very briefly, the stages we examined were these:

Review of concentration and choiceless awareness meditation practices;

Contemplation of impermanence: Arisings and passings away, and emptiness of objects (is the teacup objectively real?);

Phenomenal inquiries: “Am I this body/these sensations?” (“And is this fork different from this hand?”) “Am I these desires/aversions? These emotions?” “Am I these thoughts?” “Am I an agent of self-will?” “Are these phenomena components of who I am? They pass away, but I am still here.” We looked at these phenomena to find that they self-liberate when noticed;

Self-inquiry: “Who am I?” — following this thought directly to its source; alternatively, expressing intent to look directly at the source;

Looking directly at nothing: This slippery practice involves finding oneself in a state of pure unknowing (akin to the “senior moment” experience), whereupon “oneself” falls into a “black hole” which turns out to be the clear light of Source. The catch is that no one, especially “oneself,” knows it’s happening;

“Doing nothing” and “effortless contemplation,” the highest teachings of all, where many seekers prematurely attempt to begin.

There were many precious opportunities for spiritual practice — in fact, ongoing 24/7 as it turned out — once Joel introduced the night/sleep practices that supplemented daytime sitting, eating, walking, working, and even peeing meditations.

The closing circle gave us an opportunity to recap, laugh, hear a few songs, and enjoy one retreatant’s state of “ensparklement.” Along with the various insights and difficulties shared, many expressed an intention to recommit to our practices. The crystal clarity of Joel’s descriptions of how and why to practice seemed widely appreciated. As a newer member of this sangha, I felt great respect for each participant’s honest sharing of the small corners and crevices of our paths — very refreshing in contrast to some of the cosmic-revelation type reports found in some other sanghas!

Homage to Dr. Wolff

Homage to Dr. Wolff, our dear Yogi
Exemplar of the jnana way
Whose profound integrity of intellect
Makes no claims beyond its own
Whose passionate devotion to Truth
Surrenders all else
Whose razor-sharp clarity
Brings light to what was formerly obscure
And whose great compassion
Tirelessly teaches for so many long years

Homage to Dr. Wolff, our dear Yogi
Whose words inspire and instruct us in the jnana way
To isolate the subjective pole of consciousness
While allowing thoughts to arise in the periphery of awareness
To remember that it is the relative Nothingness
That may be Realized as the Absolute Fullness
To notice the error of thinking Realization is
A change in the contents of consciousness
To finally know that we already are that which we seek
Therefore, give up the search

Homage to Dr. Wolff, our dear Yogi
Whose words directly point to the ineffable Reality beyond the jnana way
To Knowledge-Through-Identity, to Recognition of the Great Space
That is Consciousness-Without-An-Object-And-Without-A-Subject

Homage to Dr. Wolff, our dear Yogi
May all beings Realize that, indeed,
It’s just like he said!

New Foundation Laid

The newest edition of the Foundation Studies class has formed for the 2006-07 year. There are twelve members at the present time. We will be taking a whistle-stop tour of the great religious traditions, from a mystical perspective, as we read nine very informative books. We will learn how to become good sacred scientists as we look within during our meditation practice. And we will see what we can learn about ourselves as we practice The Ten Selfless Precepts. We look forward to building a firm foundation for our spiritual paths.

HOLOS: Forum for a New Worldview

The Center for Sacred Sciences is pleased to announce the publication of vol. 2, no. 2 of our online journal, Holos: Forum for a New Worldview. This issue of Holos features an article by Thomas McFarlane, with an introduction by Joel Morwood. Tom demonstrates in this unique article how the primordial act of distinction provides a foundation for a universal language that unites all mystical traditions and links them to the mathematical language of science. Joel’s introduction discusses the relevance of this to the creation of a new sacred worldview in which science and mysticism can be seen as compatible ways of describing the same underlying Reality. Policy Regarding Spiritual Teachers/Mentors
As Adopted May 25, 2006 by the CSS Board of Directors

1. Spiritual teacher/mentor: For the purposes of this policy, a spiritual teacher (or mentor) is someone who a) offers educational information to the public about mystical traditions, mystical teachings, and mystical practices, and/or b) offers to spiritual practitioners spiritual teachings and guidance whose sole function and purpose is to help them follow a mystical path.

2. Appointment: A CSS spiritual teacher is a person who has been appointed by the CSS spiritual director, with the approval of the board, to serve and represent CSS as a spiritual teacher. An appointment as a CSS spiritual teacher may be withdrawn at any time for any reason by the CSS spiritual director, or by the CSS board of directors.

3. Stay true to tradition: To maintain coherence of teachings given by CSS teachers, the teachings and guidance given by a CSS spiritual teacher, in their capacity as a CSS spiritual teacher, must be consistent with the principles and practices of teachings at CSS as well as with the teachings of the mystics of the great religious traditions, as outlined in the CSS Mission Statement contained in the CSS Articles of Incorporation.

4. Keep it spiritual: To preserve a clear context for spiritual teachings, a CSS spiritual teacher may not provide, in their capacity as a CSS spiritual teacher, any psychological counseling or therapy, medical treatment or advice, or any other form of professional service or advice outside of the scope of spiritual guidance and teaching.

5. Admit ignorance: A CSS spiritual teacher shall openly confess ignorance when he or she does not know the answer to a question or does not have the competence to address an issue or question.

6. Honor your sources: To preserve the integrity of teachings, when giving teachings a CSS teacher shall strive to acknowledge the source or sources of the teachings being given, whether it be a book, another teacher, or direct experience.

7. Check your facts: To preserve students’ confidence in the teachings, a CSS spiritual teacher should be prepared to provide evidence to back up any statements of fact, and should appropriately qualify or restrict statements that would otherwise be too general.

8. Give teachings freely: As an outward sign of selflessness, a CSS spiritual teacher, in their capacity as a CSS spiritual teacher, should not ask for nor receive from students any substantial personal compensation for giving spiritual teachings or guidance, except that a) a portion of donations from students attending a teaching event may be accepted by the teacher as reimbursement for travel and other expenses directly related to that teaching event, and b) if a CSS spiritual teacher is in personal financial need, compensation from students or from CSS may be accepted, provided a complete disclosure of the compensation is promptly made to the CSS community.

9. Respect privacy: Out of respect for the privacy of students, a CSS spiritual teacher shall keep in strict confidence everything discussed in private spiritual consultations with a student, with the exception that a) some matters may be discussed with the CSS spiritual director (unless the student explicitly requests otherwise), and b) some information may be disclosed to appropriate civil authorities if there is reasonable suspicion that the student plans actions that would result in physical harm being done to the student or others.

10. Fair treatment: A CSS spiritual teacher shall treat every student with respect, free of discrimination based on the student’s race, ethnicity, religion, gender, age, sexual orientation, or nationality, as long as the student does not disrupt the teachings.

11. Sexual candor: CSS practitioners and teachers are lay persons who are not expected or required to be celibate. However, spiritual teachers must exercise great caution and clear judgment before engaging in a sexual relationship with someone who is also a student. In the event that a CSS spiritual teacher is or becomes engaged in a sexual relationship with a student, the CSS spiritual teacher must inform the CSS community of the relationship in a timely manner.

12. Walk your talk: To help preserve respect for the teachings and for CSS, a CSS spiritual teacher shall strive meticulously to keep the ten selfless precepts, and should promptly and openly admit transgressions.

This policy, and any updates to it, is maintained on the Center's website: www.centerforsacredsciences.org/teacherpolicy.html
Summer Party Features Music, Acknowledgments

This past summer marked the 23rd anniversary of Joel’s Gnostic Awakening, and the Center held its annual Enlightenment Day Party on Saturday, August 12. The new and quite delightful venue was the country hillside home of CSS member Mora Dewey and her husband Kent Koester. The annual Enlightenment Day Party celebrates not just one person’s awakening, but the very real fact of this realization for all of humanity. We gather to express joy at this ever-present probability for each and every one of us. (And, to kick back and have a great time!)

MIND-STOPPING LYRICS: G Gibby and Freddy C assail listeners’ sensibilities at the party.

The partygoers were witness to the graduation of last year’s Foundation Studies Course students, as well as a recognition of CSS practitioner Paul Flashenberg for completing the Way of Selflessness Distance Studies Course. But no doubt the showstopper this year was an astonishing rendition of a new song by Fred Chambers, entitled “Mushroom Buyer.” (As Fred explained later in an exclusive to the CCN, “For me it is about someone with enlightened awareness. Why he’s a mushroom buyer I’m not sure; maybe it just makes a good rhyme.”)

Herewith, a one-verse sample of Fred’s song:

Mushroom Buyer, he’s on fire!
Mushroom Buyer, he’s no liar.
Mushroom Buyer jumps the fences,
Mushroom Buyer never wincens.

Continuing the tradition of live music at these parties, we are once again grateful to Vinnie and Lou Principe for showing up with their voices, equipment, repertoire and, of course, talent.

The food was divine, and conversation was flyin’. See you there next year, Mushroom Buyer ain’t lyin’!

LIBRARY CORNER

Recently some new books were sitting on my desk that seemed to have more to do with each other than the sections of the various traditions they represented. The idea for a section on peace, love, charity, metta, etc. had been floating around for a while, but these books were just the push needed to start a new section: “Compassion and Loving-kindness.” Following is a selection of new books and old favorites from this juicy section.

—Jennifer

Start Where You Are: A Guide to Compassionate Living

“The slogan ‘Begin the sequence of sending and taking with yourself’ is getting at the point that compassion starts with making friends with ourselves, and particularly with our poisons: the messy areas.”

Training the Mind and Cultivating Loving-Kindness

“Drive all blames into one: this slogan is about dealing with conventional reality. No matter what appears in our ordinary experience, whatever interesting and powerful situations—we do not have any expectations in return for our kindness. ‘Drive all blames into one’ means that all the problems and complications that exist around our practice, realization, and understanding are not somebody else’s fault.”

Peace Pilgrim: Her Life and Work in Her Own Words

“Evil cannot be overcome by more evil. Evil can only be overcome by good. It is the lesson of the way of love.”

Charity: The Practice of Neighborliness

“The good and true in people are, therefore, the neighbor to be loved.”

Waiting for God

“The implicit love of God can have only three immediate objects, the only three things here below in which God is really though secretly present. These are religious ceremonies, the beauty of the world, and our neighbor. Accordingly there are three loves.”

On the Duties of Brotherhood

“Each time two people are in the company together, the dearer to God is he who is kinder to his companion.”

An Open Heart: The Mystic Path of Loving People

“A famous story about Hillel, the greatest rabbi of ancient times, tells that a gentle once came to him and said, ‘Rabbi, I would like to convert to Judaism, but only if you can teach me the whole Torah while I am standing on one leg.’ Hillel taught him the Golden Rule, saying, ‘The essence of the Torah is: Do not do to others what you would not like done to you. The rest is commentary; but go home and study it.’”

“This story of Hillel is so familiar to Jews that they may neglect to see how radical it is. What happened to love of God? How can love of neighbor be ‘the whole Torah’? The answer is that Hillel so closely associated love of God by loving people—that the former did not even have to be explicitly mentioned.”

Center Community News 5 Vol. 20, No. 1 (Winter 2007)
MISSION AND PROGRAMS

The Center for Sacred Sciences is dedicated to the study, practice, and dissemination of the spiritual teachings of the mystics, saints, and sages of the major religious traditions. The Center endeavors to present these teachings in forms appropriate to our contemporary scientific culture. The Center also works to create and disseminate a sacred worldview that expresses the compatibility between universal mystical truths and the evidence of modern science.

Among the Center’s ongoing events are Sunday public services with meditations and talks by the Center’s spiritual director, monthly video presentations, and—for committed spiritual seekers—a weekly practitioners’ group and regular meditation retreats. The Center also maintains an extensive lending library of books, audios, videos, and periodicals covering spiritual, psychological, and scientific subjects. In addition, the Center provides a website containing teachings, information, and other resources related to the teachings of the world’s mystics, the universality of mystical truth, and the relationship between science and mysticism. The Center publishes a newsletter containing community news, upcoming programs, book reviews, and other information and resources related to the Center’s mission.

The Center for Sacred Sciences is a non-profit, tax-exempt church based in Eugene, Oregon, USA. We rely chiefly on volunteer labor to support our programs, and on public donations and membership pledges to meet our operating expenses. Our spiritual director gives his teachings freely as a labor of love and receives no financial compensation from the Center.

DVD Publications

Shifting the Base of Reference
Joel, August 8, 1992; Great Space Center, Lone Pine, CA
DVD-32; 67 minutes Cost $17.95* (DVD only)
Joel discusses two of Dr. Wolff’s most important concepts: shifting the base of reference, and substantiality is inversely proportional to ponderability. These ideas served as steps to Dr. Wolff’s own Recognition of that Truth which transcends all concepts and ideas, and Joel shows how they can be used as the basis for a meditative inquiry by anyone following a jnana path.
* Please note that while the quality of the audio is fine, some portions of the video display sharp contrast fluctuations.

Here and Now News Service:
Joel Interviews Franklin Merrell-Wolff
Joel, June 21, 1983; Great Space Center, Lone Pine, CA
#DVD-30; 70 minutes Cost $17.95 DVD or Video
Readers of Naked Through the Gate know that during the final months of Joel’s path, he took to the road, visiting spiritual communities and teachers to record the video magazine “The Here and Now News Service.”
Meeting Franklin Merrell-Wolff, Joel recognized he was someone special and dropped the 15-minute “Here and Now” format for a longer interview. Today Joel says of this recording, “I didn’t know the right questions to ask Dr. Wolff. I wish I’d thought to redo this video after my awakening.” This film also has some spots of snow and segments of hand-held camera work. Even so, it’s a fascinating document for those familiar with Dr. Wolff’s work, or interested in the formation of Joel’s teachings.
